Seventh Year Is Completed By New Deal

Speculation On F.D.R. Seeking Third Term Still Rife

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt reached the seventh anniversary of his precedent-breaking New Deal regime today in an atmosphere teeming with speculation over whether he would continue to challenge tradition and seek a third term.

The chief executive told reporters on Saturday, however, that he would not utilize the occasion to disclose his intentions.

Third term or not, the graying president at 58 still gets a kick out of his job, his associates say, despite reports that he is tiring of it.

Rumors continue to float around capital corridors that he will favor Secretary Hull or Attorney General Jackson as his successor if he takes himself out of the picture. But no one apparently is ready to state with any definiteness what his position might be when the Democratic convention meets on July 15.

Many politicians believe the confidential report on peace prospects which Undersecretary Welles will bring back from Europe may help the president chart his political course.

Cabinet To Entertain
In observance of today's anniversary, Mr. Roosevelt decided to attend a special morning service at the "Church of the Presidents"—St. John's Episcopal—across Lafayette Square from the White House. Tonight the cabinet will entertain him and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner.

Always the performer of the dramatic and the unexpected, the president attained the seventh milestone of his administration by enlarging on one of his many "firsts." His Panama cruise added more than 4,000 miles to the presidential travel record which he set a year ago. His total now is about 178,000 miles.

Even before Mr. Roosevelt announced in his 1933 inaugural address that he would do "first things first," he had indicated his disregard for time-honored practice by flying to Chicago in 1932 to accept his nomination. He has not flown since.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt's first 100 days in the White House were his busiest. It was a gloomy March 4 seven years ago when he stood on the capital steps and promised action to a people who had seen their world twisted awry by an economic tempest.

Even as he touched a damp hand on his old family bible and pledged

Welles Visits The War Front

BASEL, Switzerland, March 4.—(AP)—United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, en route from Berlin to Paris on what many Europeans interpret as an effort to end their war, saw the western front "no-man's land" today.

President Roosevelt's fact-finder arrived here by train traveling through Bavaria along the Karlsruhe-Rhine line.

From the train window, he could see both Germany's Siegfried line on one side of the Rhine and the French Maginot line on the other.

Welles said he planned to rest in Lausanne, leaving for Paris either Tuesday or Wednesday night.

Truck Rams Bus; One Dead, 11 Hurt

DOVER, Del., March 4.—A truck rammed the rear of a school bus carrying 25 children from rural homes to Dover schools today, killing one and injuring at least 15.

Seven-year-old Elwood Williams of Sheswold died of head injuries two hours after the accident. Five others were detained at a hospital, one in a serious condition.

State police said the superstructure of the bus was demolished. Some of the children fell unconscious to the road, their shoes and clothing torn off. Others remained in their seats, weeping and helpless from fright.

The truck driver, booked as Philip Robert Christian, 25, of Buckaroo, Va., was arrested on charges of reckless driving and assault and battery. He received minor cuts.

Says Soil Needs More Moisture

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 4.—(AP)—Despite heavy snows and some recent rains, Missouri needs much more moisture before spring planting time, says H. H. Kusekoff, Missouri University soils expert.

"Surface soil has enough moisture from the snow and rain," Kusekoff said, "but deeper, or subsoil, needs much more pressure from the topsoil."

Two Burglaries Sunday Night

Burglars began another series of robberies Sunday night when the Standard Oil Co. warehouse office at 1100 West Main street, and the D-X Super Service station at Broadway and Ohio avenue, were broken into sometime after closing hours.

The Standard warehouse was entered by smashing an east window, and after getting inside the thieves ransacked the place. The door handle, combination and a hinge on the safe were knocked off but the door was not opened.

R. M. Smith, manager of the bulk plant, reported a check revealed nothing missing.

A south window in the D-X station was broken and the thieves pried open a cash drawer in the desk. A dollar bill and a small amount of change was stolen.

B. R. McClure Dies During A Brief Attack

End Unexpected After He Told Of Shoulder Pain

Benjamin Russell McClure, well known Pettis county farmer and stockman, passed away unexpectedly about 6 o'clock Sunday night, at the family home, 605 West Fifth street. Mr. McClure had apparently been in good health, but earlier in the evening had complained of a severe pain in his left shoulder and left hand.

Shortly before 6 o'clock he was sitting in the house talking with his mother and a brother, Dee McClure, when he again remarked how bad he felt from the pain and said he believed he would lie down for a few minutes. About ten minutes later his mother called to him to see if he was feeling any better. Not receiving an answer she went to the couch and found he had passed away without the knowledge of her, or the brother, who was in the room.

Dr. W. A. Beckmeyer was called, and pronounced Mr. McClure as having died from a blood clot in the heart. Dr. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, viewed the body and concurred with Dr. Beckmeyer and stated an inquest was unnecessary.

Was Stock Salesman
Mr. McClure was born October 11, 1891 at Hughesville, Mo., the son of Mrs. Louella McClure and the late Das McClure. His father preceded him in death 38 years ago the past January. Mr. McClure worked hard and became known as a prominent farmer and stockman of the county, his farm being near Hughesville, until two years ago when he came to Sedalia to make his home. For sometime he had been a stock salesman at the Missouri Pacific stockyards, and had planned to return to Hughesville the first part of April.

He was a member of the Hughesville M. E. church, affiliating with the church when 16 years old.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Louella McClure, a brother, Dee McClure, and a sister, Mrs. Sam Sprecher, all of Sedalia; a brother Will McClure of Belleville, Ill.; Hut McClure of Ottumwa, Leonard and Das McClure and a sister Mrs. H. L. Conway, all of Hughesville.

The body was taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home where funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Walter Sullens, of the Hughesville Methodist church, officiating.

Friends of the family will serve as pallbearers.

Interment will be the High Point cemetery near Hughesville in the McClure family lot.

Three Students Die In Collision

EMPORIA, Kas., March 4.—(AP)—Three Emporia State Teachers College students were killed and a fourth injured last night in a grade crossing accident on the main street of Strong City, southwest of Emporia.

Killed were Walter E. Larson, 21, sophomore from Augusta; Miss Mary Jane Ralf, 20, senior from Arkansas City; and Miss Jessie Irene Miller, 20, junior from Great Bend.

Roland Smith, 22, Elkhart, leaped from the automobile a second before the westbound Santa Fe streamliner struck the car and escaped with minor injuries.

The impact hurled the car 50 yards. Parts of it and clothing of the victims were scattered along the tracks for 300 yards.

Italy Protests Strongly On Sea Blockade

Illegality of The British Action Is Charge Voiced

BY G. C. JORDAN

ROME, March 4.—(AP)—A rupture of the British-Italian "gentlemen's agreement" regulating the Mediterranean relations of the two countries appeared threatened today as a result of the British blockade of Italian sea-borne coal imports from Germany.

Italy, asserting that her interests were "seriously injured" by this blockade, made public a vigorous protest against the effects on non-belligerent nations of Britain's economic war.

The note, bristling with charges of illegality, was delivered yesterday to the British embassy. The coal blockade, it said, "is of a kind to disturb and compromise the economic and political relations" established by the agreement April 16, 1938.

While the coal blockade was the immediate occasion for the protest, the Italian note included a general complaint against the entire system of contraband control.

Seconding the United States' protests against interference with the mails, the note called such acts "flagrant violation" of postal secrecy with the 11th Hague convention of 1907 "explicitly intended to guarantee."

Diplomats considered the Italian protest strong and the newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma described it as "measured in form but crushing in content."

Deemed Politic Pressure
Various informed Italians previously had seen the blockade as political pressure to force Italy to sell England arms instead of agricultural products in return for substituted Welsh coal.

The newspaper Il Tevere charged Britain with having attempted to deliver "two blows in one against Italy" through the blockade.

"With the first seeking to monopolize the products of Italian heavy industries it obviously was aimed to disarm Italy under the pretext of commercial exchanges," Il Tevere said. "With the second England attempted through devices of our merchant marine. Having to go to England to load coal, it is logical that our ships would transport arms there."

The submission of all maritime traffic to non-belligerent countries to contraband control, the note said, "is manifestly abusive."

British Counter Protest
The British were reported reliably already to have countered the Italian protest with one of their own against treatment of news of the blockade in the fasb-ing press.

The British were understood to have complained against alleged insinuations that the blockade was an attempt to exert economic pressure on Italy to make her agree

Orders Trial Of Medical Body

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today ordered the American Medical Association to stand trial on monopoly charges, ruling that it was as illegal to restrain "the lawful practice of medicine" as it was to restrain any kind of trade.

This decision by the appellate court for the District of Columbia upheld the validity of an indictment charging that the A. M. A., two of its society affiliates and 20 individual doctors restrained trade in opposing the activities of Group Health, Inc., a Washington cooperative organization.

"The fact that defendants are physicians and medical organizations is of no significance," the court declared in reversing a district court decision that medicine was a "learned profession" and therefore not within the scope of the Sherman Anti-Trust act.

Whether the defendants must stand trial in district court is not yet settled finally, however. The doctors could ask the supreme court to review today's order, or they might go back into district court and ask for a bill of particulars to narrow the issues.

Seth W. Richardson, counsel for the defendants, said it would be a week or ten days before a course of action was decided upon.

Thurman Arnold, head of the justice department's anti-trust division, told newsmen he was "very satisfied" with the appellate court's decision.

At the heart of the litigation is the question whether the law against "restraint of trade" applies to the medical profession.

Homes Topple From A Cave-In War Boom On Foods Fades

Shenandoah, Pa., Residents Forced Out of Dwellings

BY BILL BELL

SHENANDOAH, Pa., March 4.—(AP)—Homes and business houses in the most heavily populated section of Shenandoah sank as much as 20 inches today in cave-ins of the honeycomb of old anthracite diggings which undermine the town.

The ground settled slowly for eight or ten hours, bulging and cracking walls and leaving earthquake-like fissures in the paved streets of a 16-block area.

Shortly after noon observers saw no further signs of sinking. Residents who fled their homes at the pre-dawn alarm of a fire siren ventured back. City officials said none would be without shelter and none had been injured. They estimated property damage would reach $1,000,000.

Upwards of 2,000 persons fled their homes, aroused by a rumbling sound, then the three-blast alarm of the town fire siren.

The ground began to settle at 1 a. m., and by noon some parts of the affected region had subsided 18 to 20 inches. Chief of Police Frank Alinsky said there was nothing to indicate how soon the sinking might cease.

Such cave-ins, reported frequently in the long mined anthracite fields, sometimes continue 12 to 24 hours.

Widening cracks gaped in the brick walls of business buildings and factories. Roofs sagged and walls bulged in many of the 500 homes in the section.

Resembled 'Quake Fissures'
Cracks, described by townspeople as resembling "earthquake fissures," split street pavements. Some were several feet wide and six to eight feet deep.

Prices Now Turned Back To Lowest Level Since 1934

BY FRANK MULLIN

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP)—Most of the war boom in food stuffs which took a sudden wallop at the American pocketbook last September has been wiped out the past few months, commodity market statisticians showed today, and the expense of feeding the family turned back toward its lowest level since 1934.

Reductions in the price of meat, particularly pork, lard and similar items, paralleling the decline of hog values, has done much to lower the food budget. Thus, war, which has skyrocketed food prices in Europe and produced rationing measures and introduction of substitutes, has had only a slight effect on the American consumer.

So far, food prices changes have followed the pattern in the early months of the World War.

Market experts said this reflects to some extent the fact that supplies of most foods at the start of the war were substantially greater than in recent years. Furthermore, Europe as yet has made no unusual demands for American products in proportion to exports 25 years ago.

The cost of food held relatively steady throughout 1935 but soared early in 1936 when Europe began to call for more foodstuffs.

Reds Battle Fiercely At The Viipuri Gates

Finns Claim That Attacks On Three Sides Repulsed

HELSINKI, March 4.—The Finnish high command announced today that its forces, fighting invading Russians almost at the gates of Viipuri, had repelled attacks aimed at the city from three sides.

In addition the Finns reported fighting in the Arctic region far to the north, near Petsamo, and northeast of Lake Ladoga, where they said 1,200 Russians were killed.

The attacks against Viipuri were beaten back yesterday, according to the daily army communiqué, as the Russians attempted to advance across the ice of the Bay of Viipuri, at a second point between the Bay and the Vuoksi river, and at a third point near Ayrappa, a few miles further to the northeast.

As the Russians continued to pour a heavy land fire into deserted Viipuri, the Soviet air force backed up the attack with an aerial onslaught.

The Finns for their part said their own air force bombed "enemy columns and sites of assembly."

Heavy Artillery Exchange

In the eastern flank of the Isthmus front the Finns reported heavy artillery exchanges in the Taipale sector, but made no mention of new Russian attacks. The communiqué mentioned "heavy" Russian losses in the fighting around Viipuri, but did not estimate the casualties.

In the far north, the Finns said, their forces had driven the Russians back about two miles from Nautsi, to which the spearhead of the Red army drive penetrated last week. Nautsi is about 60 miles southwest of Petsamo.

The communiqué said Russian war planes had been active yesterday, supporting ground troops on the Isthmus and bombing areas beyond the front. Lappeenranta, about 30 miles northwest of Viipuri, was described as hardest hit.

The Finns said that so far as could be ascertained there had been civilian casualties, and an-

Are Still Too Many Jobless

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Democratic Leader Barkley, praising accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration predicted today that federal machinery for "orderly collective bargaining" would be "perfected so as to function more adequately and effectively."

Speaking in the Senate on the seventh anniversary of President Roosevelt's first inauguration, Barkley said that improvements in the government's labor set-up would come "as time moves on."

There have been indications that the Senate would not approve any changes in the Wagner labor law at this session, and Barkley did not indicate whether legislative action would be sought.

He said the president's continued interest in the rights of labor "has brought upon him more violent criticism than any of his other policies," and called it "regrettable" that "he did not receive as complete cooperation as might have been desired from the groups whose rights he championed."

It should not be forgotten, Barkley added, "that labor has gone through a particularly difficult phase of its development."

He declared that New Deal agencies had contributed substantially to business improvement.

"It is a regrettable fact," he said, "that in spite of all the efforts we have made, there are still too many millions of our people on the unemployed rolls. But I have searched in vain among our critics—including presidential candidates whose common theme song is now the alleged failure of the New Deal—to offer any constructive suggestions that contribute to a solution of the unemployment problem."

Momentum To Air Warfare Through Raids

British Report The Downing of Three German Planes

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY

PARIS, March 4.—(AP)—French military dispatches reported fresh divisions were entering the German lines amid mounting activity on the western front.

Reichswehr reinforcements of "several" new divisions trained during the winter were said to be arriving behind the active front while aerial feints back and forth across it intensified over the weekend, stressing the belligerents' anxious watch of each other for a hint of springtime tactics.

Other German units were reported moving into the region facing Switzerland.

The Germans simultaneously took the initiative in a series of weekend raids between the Rhine and Mcselle rivers.

A German raiding party succeeded in taking several French prisoners after an attack yesterday on the edge of the Vosges mountains apparently in a search for information of French troop assignments.

The French countered with an ambush in the Wissembourg gap on the eastern flank of the front where a German squad was trapped and several of its members captured.

Few Miniature Battles

A broader German assault on two French advance posts in the Nied river sector near the center of the front also was reported repulsed.

These were only some of numerous miniature battles breaking out all along the front, with infantry skirmishes setting off heavy artillery barrages.

The action, however, remained at least temporarily on the local scale despite a combination of spring weather and the advent of Europe's often momentous month of March—which some observers had been predicting would bring a German "blitzkrieg" attempt.

The allies reported seven victories in sharpened aerial action, with the British and French air forces each credited with two German planes Saturday.

One more was reported "certainly" to have been brought down by the British and two more "probably" by the French yesterday.

The war in the air, however, was still largely a conflict of photographers and pamphleteers, with a bomb and machine-gun attack on a British liner in the English

Talk of Changes In The Cabinet After Bombing

LONDON, March 4.—(AP)—Rumblings of dissatisfaction with Britain's war leadership sounded in the press today with reports of the first German aerial attack in the English channel.

A Heinkel bomber swooped on the 8,441-ton liner Domala with bombs and machine-gun fire, probably killing 108 persons—the heaviest toll aboard a merchantman since the Athenia went down with a death list of 113 on the first day of the war last September 3.

Never before had a German warplane raided shipping west of the Straits of Dover.

The attack occurred about dawn Saturday, but it and four other week-end blows to British shipping became known amid mixed foreboding and confidence over the course of the six-month-old war.

Although the Daily Mail found "proof of our supremacy" in the activities of the British navy and air force, it warned of the necessity of knowing "we have the right men" in the government.

"It may become necessary to inquire whether we are as well served as we should be by the higher command of the Royal Air Force," it declared, "and whether these posts should not be filled with younger officers familiar with up-to-date machines and strategy and tactics appropriate to their use."

Changes Forecast

The Times of London also forecast changes in high places.

"New situations," it said, "are expected in time—perhaps no long time—and as in the past will without doubt demand new methods and men."

"In this country, for the first six months, power has been in the hands of a cabinet admittedly experimental and transitional in composition. No prospect of the

What About Small Business Relief

So-called big business because of its past greediness deserves some of the punishment it is getting from the New Deal administration. Clever financial operations by big shot utility magnates who clean up a million or more in a day, referred to in today's Washington Merry-Go-Round column on this page, rile the middle class as well as the "forgotten man."

In attempting to correct this situation the administration has attempted to do a noble job. Nevertheless, in the process, the New Deal has inherited too many crack-pots who have initiated laws without any attempt to evaluate cause and effect. Apparently without any sense of values they dump a bill into Congress which itself has too many low-calibre mentalities today. The crack-pots, backed by administration leadership, have their way and Congress passes their bills.

This is an attempt to punish big business, but it goes far beyond that. Laws such as the Wage-Hour law, for instance, are so inflexible and so general in their application, that they penalize marginal small business organizations that attempting to do a good job honestly. These smaller businesses can't stand this sort of thing, too long, without reaching the point of discouragement or outright bankruptcy.

Some account of this situation should be taken by Washington. Reasonable amendments to these unworkable laws are pending but Congress is mighty slow in doing anything about them. Just because it is election year is no excuse to dilly-dally.

We'd like to see our own Congressman, Reuben T. Wood adopt some fire-breathing tactics in the halls of congress and go down the line for small business relief as well as WPA, AAA and other relief projects.

All Americans Want To Vote

A proposal to brand as paupers all persons who remain on relief for three consecutive years hit the New Jersey legislature in Trenton a few days ago and loosed a storm of indignant protest. If the plan were carried out, it would automatically remove the right to vote from persons who fell under its provisions.

The recommendation was submitted to the legislature by State Senator Homer C. Zink, chairman of the Emergency Relief Committee, but was the work of a hired investigator, Col. G. Barrett Glover. It was not a committee report and was not submitted as such, but that didn't temper the amazement of people who feared an infringement on their rival rights.

It is a pretty serious thing to be called officially a pauper. It knocks the wind out of you. It leaves you humiliated and desolate. People don't take the pauper's oath unless there isn't much else they can do.

It is equally serious to be stripped, at the same time, of your right to vote. A man forced to live on relief for a long period of time is not necessarily a poor citizen. He is more likely to value his franchise than does the man who has a job and security. He has more time to think about it.

One can't blame Colonel Glover for wanting to do something. Maybe he was thinking of the New Rochelle, N. Y., family, on relief for four years, who maintained a summer cottage along with a town residence. Or he might have been thinking of the eight Jersey City officials, awaiting sentence for relief fraud.

There have been abuses in relief everywhere. There has been some pampering along with some privation. Enough cases of mismanagement have been turned up to make taxpayers very sick to their stomachs. But the way to end this sort of thing is not to strip people of their franchise. Somehow, there must be a more equitable way of straightening things out.

But It WAS Loaded

A British steamer, plying the Chinese coast off Chefoo, was damaged when a Japanese warship fired a shell at it.

It was all a mistake, said the Japanese. They just wanted to fire a blank warning shot across the bow, and they didn't know their cannon was loaded. No one was hurt, and the Japanese said they would be glad to pay indemnities.

What are you going to do with people like that? They might blow off a dozen heads and say, simply, "Beg your pardon—all a mistake. No harm done. We'll try not to let it happen again." And just to prove that they mean it, a handful of army officers will commit hari kari.

How can one say, "Don't kid us—we know you meant it all the time," and still preserve all the niceties of international diplomacy?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—If you go behind the scenes in the bankruptcy of the giant Associated Gas and Electric Company, you can understand why Henry Morgenthau and Bob Jackson are so anxious that this be made a painstaking test case of holding manipulations.

Some of the A. G. and E. financial operations are a stark object lesson to John Q. Public Investor.

Real fact is that most of the operating subsidiaries of Associated Gas and Electric are sound, some of them even blue-ribbon utility companies. But it appears from evidence produced by the various investigations of the giant system that some of the subsidiaries have been milked pretty thoroughly by the holding company and its controllers at the top.

Howard Hopson, czar of A. G. and E., organized four personal companies, incorporated in Newfoundland and owned in toto by him or his family. Hopson also set up a tax service, an accounting service and a purchasing service, and the subsidiary companies paid huge fees for these services.

For instance, Hopson hired Frederick S. Burroughs of Harris, Forbes and Company—chief bankers of A. G. and E.—and paid him $60 per hour seven hours a day. This came to around $60,000 a year, paid by one of Hopson's personal companies. Then Hopson turned around and apportioned this charge among his subsidiary companies, but at about $150,000, or more than double the amount actually paid by him to Burroughs.

However, Hopson's most lucrative maneuvering was in buying options on his subsidiaries. For instance, in October, 1929, one of his personal companies in Newfoundland took an option on 63,000 shares of Associated Gas and Electric Securities Co. The price on Hopson's personal company was $50 per share, although the market price was then about $66.

Then on the very same day that Hopson secured this option, General Gas, one of his subsidiaries, decided that it wanted to buy 63,000 shares of A. G. and E. Securities, which it proceeded to do from the Hopson Company at $66 and a fraction per share.

So Hopson's personally owned company in Newfoundland got the difference, or a profit of $16 and a fraction per share on 63,000 shares of stock. This totalled $1,119,000—all made in one short day.

Such were the advantages of a holding company.

LaGuardia For President

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, who combines a sense of humor with a sense of reality, is being urged by his friends to become a candidate for President. LaGuardia, however, always demurs. He says he is too busy running New York City. One of those who has mentioned the presidency to LaGuardia is none other than Franklin Roosevelt himself.

"Fiorello," said FDR the last time the two men were together, "I'm for you, not only because I'm for you personally, but because you know so much about government."

"Isn't that what he tells everyone?" a friend asked LaGuardia afterward.

"Maybe," shot back the Mayor, "but it sounds good anyway."

Shells Don't Yell 'Fore'

Come the first honest-to-goodness day of spring and the robins are really around to stay, no fooling, and the weather is warm enough for you to run to the corner grocery store without your muffler, golfers will breathe deeply three times and will start finding their clubs in a way all fairway artists get to learn.

The next thing you know, all the country clubs and public links will be swarming with people who are going to break 90 or quit—and never do either.

Not so in war-ravaged Madrid. Many golfers there are without equipment, and 700 clubs have been sent over by New York sportsmen. Those Madrildinos who still have a few sticks around have got to be careful that they don't smack any unexploded shells lying around the courses. The Puerta de Hierro course is so full of holes that weren't made by divot-diggers that only nine greens can be used.

You can stack all that up as just another good reason why wars would be much better left unfought.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

The building at Second and Ohio streets is being remodeled today for J. Waldman who is going to open up a new clothing store.

The directors of the Sedalia Ice and Storage Company today elected the following officers to serve for the ensuing year: S. H. Beiler, president; Ira Hinsdale, vice-president; E. R. Andler, secretary and manager and W. H. Powell, Jr., treasurer.

Col. W. F. Switzer of Columbia, the oldest and one of the best known journalists in Missouri is in the city and called at this paper today.

John W. McClure yesterday bought of T. B. Stephens his farm of 386 acres in Health's Creek township, 15 miles north of Sedalia. The place is known as the Jackson farm and is one of the best stock farms in the county.

So They Say

No business can progress, or even last, if those in it cease trying to learn something every day.—Henry Ford.

Well planned, adequate, decisive action now would curtail the duration of the war—Former British War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha.

Many employers have neglected to get the co-operation of trade unions in reducing costs by increasing efficiency. The prospect of getting more help through such co-operation is good.—Sumner H. Slichter, Harvard University economist.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday March 10, 1940.

Golden Text: Daniel 10:19. "O man greatly beloved, fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him? Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet." (Ps. 8: 4, 6).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Matter is not that likeness. Man is spiritual and perfect; and because he is spiritual and perfect, he must be so understood in Christian Science. Man is the family name for all ideas—the sons and daughters of God. All that God imparts moves in accord with Him, reflecting goodness and power" (pp. 475, 515).

Fellowship Of Prayer

Life's Unconscious Services

Monday, March 4. Lord, when saw we Thee and hungered and fed Thee? or thirsty, and gave Thee drink? Read Matthew 25:31-40.

When goodness becomes self-conscious, its power begins to be lost. Friendship becomes strained and artificial directly it begins to act the part. Love, placarding itself as love, becomes a pose. One's best always influences and encourages others, but when one offers himself as an example of the best, he ceases to be an example. Unselfish things simply done tie us together as by chains of gold, but only as we do them selfishly.

Most of us can do more for the most part than simple things of homely every day kindness, but it is thus that our world is kept sweet and right. Perhaps the greatest surprise is the final vision of the whole of life—which is the Last Judgment—will be, on its brighter side, to have found how much we have done of which we did not dream, and be welcomed by the Lord of Love as His approved helper, while we wonderingly reply—"Lord, when saw we Thee and hungered and fed Thee?"

Prayer: Make us, O Lord, to be humble without feigning, true without duplicity, loving without dissimulation, helpful without pride and good without pretension. May we so forget ourselves in our concern for others that we may meet Thy favor with a glad surprise and Thy reproof with sincere repentance. For Jesus' sake Amen.

Today's Pattern

"Wear Everywhere" Frock Pattern 8650

Charming in Spring navy or a gay print, with crisp white at the v-neckline, this pretty frock (8650) has the simplicity and softness that make it appropriate for runabout and informal afternoons both. It's the type you wear more than any other in your wardrobe—very smart and new looking.

There's a lot of figure-flattery in the princess skirt, cut high at the waistline to stress slowness, and the shirred, gathered bodice that rounds out your bosom. The high-shouldered sleeves are snugged in to the arm with clusters of gathers. Make this of silk print, flat crepe, thin wool or sheers, with white pique or organdy, for the pointed collar and wear a corsage or a dazzling brooch at the v-neckline. A step-by-step sew chart comes with your pattern.

Pattern No. 8650 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material without nap; 2 1/2 yard of 36 or 39-inch material for either collar.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15c in coin; your name, address, style, number, and size to The Democrat-Capital, Today's Pattern Service, 106 - 7th Ave., New York, N. Y.

The Story of Democracy

him during his rise to power, but this aristocracy gradually makes common cause with the rich people and eventually they are succeeded by the rich, by the men of business, pretending never so much as to see those whom they have already ruined—inserting their sting (that is their money) into anybody who is not on his guard against them and recovering the principal sum many times over. That is the way in which they make drones and paupers to abound in the state.

"Finally their victims can no longer stand it and they attack the rich. They kill many and exile some and to the others they give what they call equality of freedom and power.

"Immediately they use their power to increase the dole and to give themselves all the lucrative offices.

"They flatter the multitudes and pamper them until all rule becomes anarchy, all standards are debased by omnipresent vulgarity and manners are coarsened by unhindered insolence and abuse.

"The mad pursuit of wealth destroys an oligarchy, but excess of liberty destroys a democracy, for the father descends to the level of the son and the master fears and flatters his pupils. The pupils despise their teachers. Young and old are alike, and the young man in on the level with the old one and ready to compete with him in word or deed. This excess of liberty causes slavery of the worst sort, and the most aggravated form of tyranny arises out of the most extreme form of liberty.

"In the end, this become unbearable. The rich, afraid that democracy will bleed them to death, begin to conspire against the democratic leaders, and meanwhile some enterprising fellow comes along and promises the poor he will make an end to all their misery if they will only follow him as their leader. He promises everything to everybody and hastens to surround himself with an army. He kills his enemies and then kills those of his friends whom he has reason to suspect. Finally, he purges the state and establishes a dictatorship.

"The few reasonable men are like civilized human beings fallen among the wild beasts, and they retire, if they want to save themselves, and wait until the storm has passed by."

"THAT, as you might think, is not an editorial from a local Bolshevik newspaper. It is a translation of certain passages to be found in the works of Plato. He was considered the most intelligent student of politics in his day. And he lived twenty-five hundred years ago.

Plan A State-Wide Alumni

Plans for perfecting a state organization of alumni of Central College, Fayette, will be presented to graduates and former students in this area at a dinner to be held at the Fifth Street Methodist church here at seven o'clock Monday evening, March 11.

Dean E. P. Puckett

Dean E. P. Puckett, who is serving his twenty-seventh year as Central dean, will be the speaker.

Prof. Keith K. Anderson, director of Central College bands, will direct a "singing band" in a variety program of instrumental and vocal music.

The dinner here will be the fifth in a series of eleven Central alumni meetings to be held in key cities throughout the state in March. Earlier meetings are scheduled for Hannibal, Fayette, St. Louis, and Malden. Other dinners will follow at Jefferson City, Chillicothe, Kansas City, Joplin, St. Joseph, and Farmington.

Central alumni clubs have functioned in several of the larger cities for many years, but this is the first attempt to organize an active state-wide association. Dr. W. D. Baskett, a member of the Central faculty, heads the association as it is organized at present. Prof. Fulton Moore, also of the college staff, is secretary of the organization.

Seven counties are included in the Sedalia district, which is one of eleven districts designated in the state by alumni leaders who are directing organization plans. The seven counties are Benton, Cooper, Henry, Johnson, Lafayette, Pettis, and Saline.

Dr. H. U. Campbell, of Sedalia, is serving as committee chairman of this district.

The SOS troop No. 6 held its regular meeting Wednesday Feb. 21 with 16 girls present. The program consisted of a talk on photography by Miss Truitt. She told us that photography was over 100 years old. Years ago when some one wanted to take a picture of a building it was necessary to use seventy-five pounds of equipment while today two or three ounces is all that is required. Today simplicity is the keynote of everything. Photography is so simple now that it has become a very worthwhile hobby instead of a burden. She outlined several branches of photography namely: Portrait, Table Photography and Illustrative Photography. It is very fascinating and is just beginning to grow. Color photography is just in its infancy and will soon be used in every picture. Everyone will establish a firm foundation in art through landscape photography. Different things by which to judge a picture are, first, human interest, second, sticking to the subject, third, technical quality and fourth, composition. Photography is one of the few hobbies which is not seasonal. This is a brief outline of Miss Truitt's very interesting talk. Our troop is going to study photography and we are very fortunate to have Miss Truitt's aid which we deeply appreciate. As there was no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Elleta Wheeler, Scribe.

Pack Number 56 met at Broadway school Thursday afternoon. First we had roll call, then we coming months can exclude the certainty that it will in time undergo further changes in plan and personnel, adapting it ever more closely to the imperious requirements of war.

Neither gave any hint which, if any, cabinet members were in mind, but the Mail said "Men who don't survive the test of real war must go," and "we believe Mr. Chamberlain will discover before long that he can very usefully replace some of his ministers, both great and small."

It suggested that there might be necessity "very soon" to review some of the appointments of former War Secretary Hore-Belisha.

The Domala, towed to an undisclosed port after bombs had set her afire and shattered her bridge, was the first big British passenger ship victim of German warplanes.

Of 301 persons aboard, 20 Britons and 88 British Indians were feared lost. The Domala carried 253 Lascars being repatriated from internment in German ports. She sailed from Antwerp, Belgium.

Many Die In Bombs
Many were said to have been killed in their bunk beds when the plane dived and swept the ship's decks with machine-gun bullets.

Nine Britons and 42 Indians were rescued by a Netherlands ship and landed at a south coast English port. The others were rescued by British ships.

One eye-witness said the bomber carried full navigation lights, and the Domala's crew mistook it for a British plane until it dropped to 40 feet above the ship and released the first bomb. The Admiralty said four bombs were dropped, and three scored hits.

"We were blazing from stem to stern in 20 minutes," he said. "After the first bomb, the plane sprayed the deck with machine-guns."

Another survivor said the passengers and crew were attacked after they fled the ship.

"I was in a small lifeboat with 15 others," he said. "Every few seconds the plane dived and poured lead into our sides."

"After the third raid, I jumped into the water and crawled on a raft. It contained a dead Lascar, his body riddled with bullets. Five minutes later, I saw the lifeboat sink with my dead comrades."

yesterday after striking a mine. Two persons were killed. Two crewmen were killed when the 710-ton British steamer Cato, also believed to have struck a mine, sank off the west coast. There still were 11 missing.

Homes Topple From A Cave-In

subsidence to a collapse of old anthracite workings beneath the section. They said the collapse probably was caused by rain that has fallen for 24 hours.

Soon after the first alarm some houses had sagged so that doors were jammed and occupants had to escape through windows. Police then organized a squad of volunteers to arouse the neighborhood, house by house.

The area affected was roped off. Water and gas mains broke at the first sinking. They were shut off. Meanwhile, amid fear of fires, the entire town was without water. The pumping plant is in the settling area.

Crowds from all parts of town lined the roads. Women sobbed, merchants closed their stores.

Many residents were permitted to return almost at once to homes along streets only slightly affected. Nearly 1,000 others, temporarily homeless, huddled in the rain or took shelter with friends.

After the confusion of the first scare, police said residents of the area might go back to their homes or carry out possessions—"if they wanted to."

The affected section includes almost a quarter of the town of 21,000 population. Damage was reported within a block of the intersection of Main and Center streets—the heart of the town. The sinking extended in varying degree from one street above Center street, which runs east and west.

State police from all nearby stations were summoned to help the Shenandoah police force maintain order and patrol the endangered section.

Are Led To Safety

Telephone service to Shenandoah from nearby communities in the anthracite section was disrupted.

The ground began to settle and split open about 1 a. m., Alinsky reported. Seven hours later it was still sinking slowly.

Policemen roused residents and led them to safety.

Gas and water lines were broken and police immediately ordered valves of pipes leading into the area closed.

"Some of the buildings were split in half," Chief Alinsky said. "In some houses, doors jammed so tightly that the people had to crawl out of windows to get away."

A steady downpour of rain which fell for the past 24 hours, added to the discomfort of those who fled their homes.

In addition to private residences, the area included the junior and senior high schools, the rescue hook and latter fire house, the Hotel Mondour, the Miller shirt factory, an armor packing plant and numerous smaller business places.

The chief said the settling "probably would continue most of the day."

The eighth circuit was Justice Butler's particular responsibility. The six judges of the court sat on the bench.

Five Die In Fire At Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, March 4.—(AP)—Five persons are believed to have perished in a fire which destroyed the building housing the Communist headquarters for northern Sweden at Lulea yesterday.

Philip Forsberg, a Communist editor known as "Red Philip," was injured leaping to safety.

Charge of Hatred

MOSCOW, March 4.—(AP)—The Soviet trade union organ Thud charged today that a fire in Communist headquarters at Lulea, northern Sweden, yesterday was caused by an explosion planned by "British-French war mongers and their Swedish hirelings."

The paper said: "The Lulea provocation was the result of the impotent hatred of war mongers who know that the imminent downfall of white Finland means the failure of plans for conversion of Sweden into a new base for imperialist war."

Applause Cuts Speech Short

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—When Rep. Rich (R-Pa.) mentioned to the House today that President Roosevelt had been in office seven years, Democratic applause lasted so long it used up most of the minute Rich had been authorized to speak.

Rich complained about this encroachment on his time, then went on to say, "one year from now we'll be in office."

Grimacing Democrats cut loose with loud boos.

Rich shot back that after the president had read an account of the seven years which Rich planned to put in the Congressional Record, "he'll resign and let some one else take his place."

War Boom On Food Fades Out

September wholesale food prices advanced about 12 percent while retail prices rose more than 5 percent. However, the boom peak was reached within a week or two largely as a result of immediate speculative "forward" purchasing.

By October there had been a good reaction.

Prices now are near the five-year low level through which they ranged from February to August last year and are 20 percent below the peak reached late in 1937, which stands as their highest level since 1930. They are about 33 percent lower than the 1929 peak but about 27 percent above the low point reached early in 1933.

Average retail prices of pork chops are the lowest since late in 1934 and lard is around the lowest since that time. The price of round steak, while about 15 percent above the low point reached early in 1938, is 20 percent below the peak of 1937.

Bureau of labor statistics index figures of retail prices were 77.1 at mid-January compared with 79 at mid-September, 75.1 in mid-August and 77.5 in January last year. The February 17 index of wholesale food prices was 70.5 against 75.5 on last September 16 and 66.2 on August 18.

Deeper Cuts On Appropriations

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—The house appropriations committee refused today to approve another $250,000 appropriation for the Byrd Antarctic expedition, saying that it had been misinformed last year as to the expedition's needs.

The committee made other cuts in the interior department bill, to trim a total of $2,986,277 from President Roosevelt's request for the department.

The committee recommended $119,071,187 for all of the department's activities. Its action pushed the total of congressional reductions in presidential budget estimates past $293,000,000.

The committee also disallowed a $985,350 request for a new map-making project by the geological survey. The committee said that since the maps were suggested as being of strategic military importance, the money should be provided under the heading of military appropriations.

Another reduction was in funds for Bonneville dam, in Washington and Oregon.

The committee increased the appropriation for the all-American canal in California from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

The net reduction was made up of the balance between many reductions and many increases.

In the appropriation bill, recommended to the house for consideration late today or tomorrow, the following major items were included:

Bureau of Indian affairs $30,497,736—$456,125 less than budget estimates; bureau of reclamation $48,214,600—$195,000 more than the budget; national park service $8,948,770—$117,770 less.

The total carried in the bill represented a reduction of $29,789,443 below current appropriations for the same functions, due chiefly to cuts made at the White House before the estimates were presented to congress.

Free Brady In Extortion Case

ST. LOUIS, March 4.—(AP)—State Representative Edward M. Brady was freed today of an extortion charge in connection with an alleged $10,000 payment made by theater owners to forestall a wage increase demanded by the movie operators' unions in 1936.

Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller dismissed the indictment after Circuit Judge Thomas J. Rowe had recommended such action be taken to "save the state the unnecessary expense of a useless trial."

Brady's trial had been set for today, but the charge was dismissed before selection of the jury had begun.

John P. Nick, former head of the Motion Picture Operators' union who was jointly indicted with Brady, was acquitted last January 11. Nick, however, still faces trial on another extortion charge.

In the Nick trial, Fred Whrenberg, chain theater owner, testified he paid Brady $10,000 in cash the day Nick signed a wage contract at the old wage scale. Brady is completing his third term in the Missouri Legislature.

Momentum To Air Warfare Through Raids

channel at a probable cost of 108 lives as a noteworthy exception. Today's French communique, one of the longest in the half-year of war, said "numerous aerial flights" in probable destruction of two German pursuit planes. A third was said to have been brought down by British airmen.

Shoot Down Three Planes
The British, however, reported they had shot down three German planes in 24 hours.

French planes, many of them American-built, made deep thrusts into Germany without losses, the high command reported.

(The German communique yesterday acknowledged that two German scouting planes were missing, but said one French plane was shot down in a battle between four German planes and 12 French over the Moselle river sector. Three French craft were said to have been brought down in other encounters.)

(Germany reported also that on Saturday "northeastern France as far as the Paris region was scouted," while the British reported reaching Berlin Saturday night, the fifth such flight in six days.)

The war was still in the attrition stage—the steady strain of keeping millions under arms, the destructive friction of blockade and counter-blockade.

That, roughly, was the conflict in Europe as Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state and President Roosevelt's special investigator, traveled today from Berlin, enroute to Paris and London, via Lausanne, Switzerland, to continue his fact-finding, after having talked with Adolf Hitler and the fuhrer's three top-ranking aides. He is expected to reach Paris Thursday.

Propose Income Query Be Out

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today that a senate commerce subcommittee had approved a resolution recommending that questions regarding personal income be eliminated from the 1940 census.

The committee agreed that its action should be kept secret until tomorrow, but a reliable source told reporters that the resolution by Senator Tobey (R-NH) had been approved by a vote of three to two. Chairman Bailey (D-NC) of the subcommittee was said to have supported the resolution, but the other votes were not made public immediately.

It was reported the committee voted to keep its action secret because the commerce department had asked additional time to file a statement. It was added, however, that the subcommittee intended to take no further vote.

The resolution will be voted upon by the full commerce committee tomorrow, and, if approved, will go to the senate floor. It merely would express "the sense of the senate" that questions regarding personal income be stricken from the census.

Tobey said, however, that if the resolution was adopted he was confident that the census bureau would withdraw the questions.

Tobey argued that the questions would violate rights of personal privacy and that the information gathered might become a subject of neighborhood gossip.

No Contest On Cross Complaint

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—The final steps in Mrs. Betsey Cushing Roosevelt's suit for divorce from James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, were set today for Thursday at 11 o'clock in superior court.

Her attorneys informed the court that Mrs. Roosevelt's brother, Henry K. Cushing, chief corroborating witness to her charges of cruelty, was unable to appear this morning, due to illness.

The testimony of Cushing is regarded as a legal formality since Roosevelt, although he filed the initial action for divorce, made no appearance Friday to contest his wife's cross complaint charging cruelty and desertion.

Seek Amendments To Wagner Act

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Eleven motion picture companies asked Congress today to approve administrative amendments to the Wagner Act.

Maurice Benjamin, spokesman for the producers, told the House Labor committee that the legislators should declare the right of employers to discharge workers for normal causes.

Conceding that employers had that right already, Benjamin said that upon occasion it had been difficult to convince the National Labor Relations Board that a worker had not been fired for union activities.

"The amendment might have a psychological effect on the board," he added.

Dies Soon After Auto And Truck Collide

PRINCETON, Mo., March 4.—Foster Poland, 28, Lineville, Ia., died shortly after his automobile and a truck collided north of here last night. His companion, Burl Lawson, 36, also of Lineville, was taken to a Trenton, Mo., hospital in a critical condition. The truck driver was not hurt.

Be No Inquest In Shooting Child

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Mo., Mar. 4.—Mrs. Mayme Thornburg, Howell county coroner, said today no inquest will be held in the fatal shooting Saturday of William Bohrer, 13. The child was shot to death by his brother, Albert, 18, while several youths were playing bandit at the home of another brother, Walter Bohrer, near here.

The coroner said Albert Bohrer used an old rifle which he thought was unloaded. Their father, Emil C. Bohrer, is employed in Kansas City.

It was the third tragedy in the Bohrer family, the elder Bohrer's wife having burned to death several years ago and later a daughter was asphyxiated.

Reds Battle Fiercely At The Gates Of Viipuri

nounced that four Russian planes had been shot down.

Yesterday the high command announced that 1,000 Russians had been slain at Kolla, northeast of Lake Ladoga, where their attacks were repulsed by artillery fire.

On other fronts, where savage fighting was said still to be in progress, the Finnish communique yesterday reported gains on the eastern side of the Karelian Isthmus—where the Russian invaders have failed to dent the Mannerheim Line—and at Kuhmo and Salla on the eastern front.

Where the Karelian Isthmus defense lines are intact, well-timed artillery fire was reported to have inflicted heavy losses on the enemy lines.

Several of the enemy's strong points were said to have been seized after Red army sallies failed in the eastern front sectors.

Report New Advances

MOSCOW, March 4.—Red forces closing in on Viipuri reported new advances to the north and south of the shell-shattered port city today and indicated strategy of encircling it and severing all supply lines before the knockout blow.

Two newly won positions were Tuppuransari, a bay of Viipuri Island 15 miles to the south, and Saarela, a hamlet and undisclosed number of miles to the north, the red army announced.

On the island, the reds reported capturing six fortifications, five of them iron and concrete forts with heavy coast defense guns in full working order. At Saarela, the Russians said they took the fully equipped headquarters of a "large military formation" and four 75-millimeter guns.

The communique reporting the gains did not mention fighting in Viipuri itself, into which the Russians had said they battled their way Saturday, seizing the railway station and the surrounding southern end of town.

Closing of the noose on Viipuri would compel the Finns to withdraw completely, or run the risk of siege without promise of reinforcements and supplies.

The communique followed a fresh Moscow accusation that Great Britain and France were plotting to expand their own war against Germany by entangling Soviet Russia.

For Revamping Loan System

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Four farm-state leaders laid before congress today a proposed revamping of the farm loan system, which they said would make land banks self-supporting yet cut the interest rate to farmers.

They would put a flat 3 percent interest charge on farm real estate loans. Farmers now pay 3½ percent on land bank loans and 4 percent on land bank commissioner loans.

The bill was proposed by Chairman Jones (D-Tex.), of the house agriculture committee and Senators Wheeler (D-Mont), Bankhead (D-Ala.), and LaFollette (Prog-Wis).

The authors said it "abolished foreclosure proceedings and deficiency judgments except in cases of wilful or negligent damage to the mortgaged property."

They asserted that the land banks could be made self-supporting by a government guarantee of all future issues of their bonds. This, they indicated, would make possible lower interest rates all around.

The reduction of land bank interest rates to their present level, the congressmen declared, was a temporary measure and could be continued only by annual appropriation of $38,000,000 to make up the contract rate of 5 percent.

Student Pilot Injured In Plane Crash

SIKESTON, Mo., March 4.—The crash of a small single-seater plane at an airport near here yesterday critically injured Daniel McCoy, Jr., 30-year-old student pilot.

The plane, which McCoy had used as a "cotton duster" to spray cotton, dove to the ground from a height of about 100 feet after witness said the motor stalled.

McCoy suffered fractures of both legs and severe chest injuries. He was taken to Cape Girardeau hospital where one leg was amputated.

The plane was demolished but did not catch fire.

Italy Protests Strongly On The Sea Blockade

to exchange armaments for British coal.

Italy's protest yesterday was accompanied by the newspaper attack of Robert Farinacci, fascist grand council member. He called the British blockade "reaction to our refusal to sell arms to England" and charged that Britain "hoped to oblige our country to buy coal from Welsh mines."

Italy objected to Britain's blockade of German imports as well as exports.

Control of Germany-bound ships, she contended, required "onerous and excessive documentation not compatible with normal secrecy of commercial dealings—the re-routing of ships in control ports with delay frequently prolonged for days and weeks, causing very serious damage to equipment, to regularity of service and to carrying on of traffic and frequently paralyzing the supply of goods to non-belligerent countries with immediate and direct repercussions on industry and labor."

Meet Cool Reception
LONDON, March 4.—(AP)—Foreign Office circles indicated today Italy's protest against Britain's stoppage of German coal shipments would meet a cool British reception.

The Italian protest, against blockading German coal bound by sea to Italy, contained a warning that the British measure might "disturb and compromise" Italian-British political and commercial relations.

"It cannot be assumed that we can waive rights and international interests which are maintained under international law," one British source said.

Sails With German Coal

ROTTERDAM, March 4.—(AP)—The Italian Collier Orata sailed for Italy today with a cargo of German coal.

Well-informed sources had reported yesterday that Great Britain port here to pass the allied sea blockade with German coal shipments to Italy.

Two Are Held On Murder Charge

SALEM, Mo., March 4.—Two persons, identified by officers as Louis White, 30, and Elizabeth Waugh, 35, are facing first degree murder charges in Dent county in connection with the killing of Bruce Butler, 55, local second hand furniture dealer.

Butler's body, a bullet hole in the head and weighted down with rocks, was found in a water-filled mine pit at the edge of Salem, February 25. He had been missing since December 17.

Prosecuting Attorney C. R. Hayes, who said White would be arraigned tomorrow, declined to discuss his information which brought about arrest of the man and woman, who are held without bail.

Murray Trial Starts Today

KANSAS CITY, March 4.—(AP)—Trial of Matthew S. Murray, former state WPA administrator, on charges of federal income tax evasion, was postponed until this afternoon by Judge Albert L. Reeves because of memorial services for the late Pierce Butler, United States supreme court justice.

Murray waived the right of trial by jury.

A grand jury indicted him last October 27 for evading taxes on $89,824.

Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, in his opening statement charged Murray misused his power. The prosecutor told the court evidence would show Murray extended to Tom Pendergast companies favors in letting contracts and had solicited contracts for a commercial concern of the Pendergast machine.

Milligan also asserted Murray kept no books on his personal finances although he knew the value of records.

The indictment charged Murray evaded income taxes on $69,691 in the five years ending with 1938. Milligan said evidence will show Murray received money from business associates of Pendergast.

Gil P. Bourk Dies At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 4.—Gil P. Bourk, 45, justice of the peace and leader of one of the factions which gave the Pendergast organization its solid control of Democratic affairs in Kansas City, died last night. He had been ill 10 days with influenza.

Bourk, former member of the state legislature, succeeded to the factional leadership with the voluntary retirement from active politics in 1936 of the late Cassimir J. Welch. For years Welch was associated with him in 1924. In recent years both the Shan-non and the Bourk-Welch factions have acted in cooperation with the Pendergast organization.

At late as Saturday, however, Bourk refused to comment when asked if his faction would support a city election ticket named by a committee chosen by John Madden, county Democratic chairman and Pendergast attorney. Other factional leaders have pledged support to the ticket.

Seventh Year Is Completed By New Deal

ed himself to support the constitution, the banking structure of his country crumbled.

Searching through 15-year-old wartime laws, Mr. Roosevelt found the authority under which he proclaimed a four-day bank holiday, an embargo on the withdrawal of gold or silver, and heavy penalties for violators of his numerous emergency proclamations.

(It was from these same laws that he drew the authority for his limited national emergency proclamation when the European war started last September.)

Then he went to the radio and told the nation in simple language what he had done. It was the first White House "fireside chat."

Five days after his inauguration he called congress into special session. He had an emergency banking bill ready. It passed the house in 38 minutes without a dissenting voice. Three hours later the senate passed it 73 to 7.

Mr. Roosevelt then began sending to the capital ready-made bills in rapid-fire order, some designed to meet emergency conditions, some looking into the future, but all reflecting a new philosophy of government. So ready was congress to accept his proposals that it later became known as the White House "rubber stamp."

In those early days of the New Deal there were the familiar AAA and NRA acts—which later were invalidated by the supreme court—the CCC, the TVA, a program for job-giving public works, renunciation of the gold standard, devaluing the dollar, and many others.

Criticism On Laws
As time marched on, much criticism was heaped on the laws that came out of the special session. Broad powers vested in the chief executive were the main targets, and the supreme court knocked out keystones of the New Deal program.

Roosevelt won 46 states in the 1936 election and began his second term on February 5, 1937, he sent his memorable message to congress proposing a reorganization of the supreme court. This plan split the Democratic party into bitterly-opposing factions and finally was put to death by the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt later, though, had the opportunity of naming a majority of the court through the filling of vacancies, and the bitterness arising from the court bill battle has become less noticeable.

Conditions confronting Mr. Roosevelt today present the double problem of keeping out of war under a new neutrality policy and finding a solution to such domestic matters as unemployment.

Deadlock To War In Europe

WASHINGTON, March 4.—After six months of the European war, American military men were in substantial agreement today that the conflict has reached a deadlock and that the way out is not in sight.

Otherwise, officers whose duty is to form judgments unclouded by sympathies are divided both on the significance of events thus far and on the outlook for the future.

Few military men expect a mass offensive of world war style on the western front with the advent of spring, and few believe that the final outcome will be affected by the fate of Finland.

A cautious majority inclines to the view that the allies already have won the upper hand, and that economic strangulation and an eventual stroke of some kind should ultimately bring the Nazis to terms.

An impressive minority, which includes some highly-placed officials with access to confidential advice from abroad, contends privately that the British and French face the greater peril from the long siege-war of attrition, starvation and nerves which they anticipate.

Germany, by this estimate, is offsetting effectively the loss of overseas commerce by drawing oil and other supplies from Russian and Balkan sources; can defeat any prospective military thrust; has a disciplined population less likely to crack under pressure than the British or French.

At the moment, many professional observers see the most promising chance for a break in the deadlock in successful British-French efforts to enlist allies and set up new fronts which will close the back door to Germany.

There are some, too, who see the possibility of victory for a desperate Nazi "total war" onslaught by air.

But until there is a shift in the lineup of forces, the contending powers obviously have a powerful checkmate for any threat by land, sea or air.

Truman Hopes F. D. R. Not Run

Week's Political Calendar (By The Associated Press)

Tuesday—Special congressional election in 6th Iowa district to elect successor to the late Rep. Dowell, Republican.

Friday—Minnesota Farmer-Labor party convention at Rochester.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Senator Truman (D-Mo) said today he hoped that President Roosevelt would not seek a third term, but added:

"If he does, I will support him."

Truman told reporters he always had opposed the third term idea because of the tradition that a president should serve only eight years.

The senator, ending his first term, is engaged in a fight for re-nomination against Governor Stark of Missouri. While there had been earlier indications that administration forces were friendly to Stark, authoritative persons reported today that New Deal officials were taking no part in the race.

Senator Clark (D-Mo) declined comment on Truman's contest. Friends said, however, that if he took any active part in the campaign, he would support his colleague.

While the Missouri situation interested capital politicians, there still was much talk about the week-end statements of Senator Dohoney (D-Ohio) and Speaker Bankhead (D-Ala.).

After 35 years of public life, Dohoney, 66, announced he would retire "for the preservation of my health." Many party leaders had expressed hope that he would run again, for they argued that he would strengthen the national Democratic ticket in Ohio.

Bankhead made it clear that his "favorite son" candidacy for the presidency was not one of opposition to Mr. Roosevelt, should the latter run again.

The speaker agreed with his brother, Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.), that if the President wants the Democratic nomination, "he can have it without much question."

Teachers Meet At High School

The Sedalia Community Teachers' Association met Saturday morning at Smith-Cotton high school, with the president, Miss Frances Meyer, presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report were given by John Van Hoy, acting secretary for Mrs. Ruth Riley, who was absent because of illness.

Special music was by members of the Lincoln high school semi-chorus. They sang "Dark Water," a special arrangement from Rigoletto, and "Moon Glow." Their numbers were well given and enjoyed by the association.

Reports were given, and a resolution of sympathy on the death of Miss Martha Letts.

Dr. C. A. Phillips, director of training in the school of education at the university of Missouri, was the speaker, on the subject of "Integration." Following his talk he showed some pictures made by the training school at Columbia.

Victory Dinner By Russells

The entire sales force of the Russell Brothers Clothing company met in Warrensburg Sunday, where they were entertained with a Victory dinner, celebrating the success of their 25th Anniversary Sale which ended last Saturday night.

Mr. Russell gave out figures for all the men to be proud of, which show that all previous records for the month of February had been shattered. Individual stores showed increases up to three times the volume of February 1939 and the grand total showed the entire organization having shown an increase of near two and a half times the volume of last February. The Sedalia store led in the gain, having done slightly more than three times the business over February 1939.

Mr. Russell said that he was calling the dinner a Victory dinner for the reason that the firm had been victorious in promoting their greatest combined effort in one sale at a time when roads were unfavorable and business conditions not so good on the National Retail Business chart.

Mr. Russell also announced that each man in their employ would be given a silver medal to commemorate the occasion of having done his individual part toward the success of this, their greatest promotion.

Mr. Russell stated that the success of this sale and the increased volume of business in the Sedalia store could be credited largely to the use of the Democrat-Capital as an advertising medium.

YESTERDAY, Ann makes it clear to Paul that she has no intention of marrying him, and that she meets the other roomers in her new home. One of the girls, Florabelle, promises to arrange a date for Ann soon.

CHAPTER X

CLARA said, "This is our place. Ann. Come in and start living with me."

Ann followed her into a small living room. Worn carpet, sagging chairs, limp curtains, grimy walls covered with pictures. Evidences of Clara's artistic attempts crowded the room. Artificial flowers, blatantly artificial, sprang from cheap vases and bowls. The pictures were garish and impossible. Little china dogs and cats and elephants littered the tables and window sills. A cot, covered with a pseudo-oriental rug, did duty as a davenport.

Off the living room, was the kitchen, a small cupboard arrangement with doors swung wide. Through a door in another wall, Ann glimpsed a bedroom. In spite of the atrocious color combinations, the place had a homey, pleasant air.

Clara led the way to the bedroom. Ann's quick eye noticed that the bed was a good inch thicker than the one she had left. Clara pulled back a curtain which hung from a shelf. "This is the closet. See—You can have half and two drawers in the dresser. Pretty nice diggins, don't you think?"

They were interrupted by a quick knock on the door. "It's Sam," Clara exclaimed. "My boy friend—the one I told you about."

She opened the door to admit a big, loose-jointed youth who looked most uncomfortable in a necktie and ill-fitting suit.

"Hi, Sport," Clara greeted him. "Come here, Ann, and meet Sam Little. Little—" she laughed. "Isn't that a name for him?"

The young man awkwardly held out his hand and Ann put hers into it. His hand was huge, hard as a table top.

"How do you do," she said. "I'm Ann."

Clara bustled into her coat. "We're going to the movies. Make yourself at home, Ann."

"I will."

She watched them as they went down the stairs. She saw Sam kiss Clara at the turn. She stood there a moment, thinking of Clara and Sam? Were they in love? Was that why they had kissed?

Strangely enough, Ann had never been kissed. The reason was quite simple. There had been no opportunity while she traveled from one end of the country to the other with Pete, always under the watchful eye of her mother. And there had been no opportunity since.

She thought of Paul Hayden with a quickening of the pulse. Perhaps he would kiss her some day. But no, he was afraid of girls, afraid that one of them might marry him.

ANN went back to the bedroom. She put clean newspapers in the dresser drawers and carefully placed her few belongings in neat piles. Clara's jumbled toilet articles had been moved to one side and she set out her jars and boxes, comb and powder puff. She got the wire hangers from her bag and hung up her dresses and coats.

A warm feeling of home enveloped her. The girls in the hall had been friendly. It was nice to know that Clara would come in later. She had a date for the next evening—a date with Paul Hayden. Perhaps life had found her at last.

"Mind if I come in?" It was Florabelle, still in the orchid draperies, still insolently smoking.

"Mind?" I should say not. Sit down. Ann came from the kitchen and dropped to a chair, curling one foot under her.

"God, I'm sleepy," Florabelle groaned, throwing herself among the rainbow hued cushions on the cot, stretching her long, lovely body. "Didn't get in until 4 this morning."

"Gracious—I'm afraid I couldn't work if I stayed out so late." Florabelle said, "Guess you haven't been around much, Ann."

"No—well, in a way, yes. I've lived in almost every city in the United States. I've stayed in the best hotels and—"

"Well, well—" Florabelle sat up. "Looks are certainly deceiving. I thought you'd come from Yahoo or somewhere. Not that you look like a hick. What are you doing in a dump like this? Lost your cunning?"

Ann flushed. "I traveled with my father. He died a year ago. I've been on my own since."

"Oh, I see," Florabelle got to her feet, yawning. "Come over and see where I hang out." She trailed across the hall and Ann followed. Stepping inside Florabelle's door, her eyes opened wide.

THE apartment, architecturally speaking, was like her own, but the furnishings were vastly different. The walls were pale yellow, the woodwork had been painted silver, the carpet was dove gray. Chromium glittered.

Answers
1. Several minutes before one,

There was a low davenport flanked correctly by two overstuffed chairs and a coffee table with a glass top. Lamps and ash trays and pictures of men stood upon other tables. A radio, encased in aquamarine colored glass, hummed softly. The room was ornate, cheaply and fantastically modern.

"It's—it's very lovely," Ann said.

"It'll do," Florabelle pushed the bedroom door open and Ann received another shock. The bed was low and wide, it was soft and thick, a velvet cover fell to the floor. The dressing table, two small chests separated by a shelf, stood below an immense, circular mirror. There was a gold brocade slipper chair and a wardrobe. The door of the wardrobe stood open and Ann saw rows of gowns, shoes on a rack, hats in transparent boxes. Beside the bed, on a chromium table, stood an ivory telephone.

Ann said, "I want lovely things some day."

"Why don't you have them?"

ANN's eyes widened. "I can't afford them. I only make fifteen a week."

"It isn't what you make. It's how you manage."

Ann looked dazed. "If you know the answer I wish you'd pass it on to me."

"Get men to give you what you want."

"I don't know any men. Anyway, I wouldn't—"

"I said I'd fix you up," Florabelle looked Ann up and down, her eyes drowsy and speculative.

"I went with a rich guy once," she said. "He bought this stuff for me because he said I deserved beautiful surroundings. He had the place redecorated and paid Mrs. Follet to have the bathroom put in."

Ann looked at her new friend with faint suspicion. "Wasn't that a great deal to accept from a man?"

Florabelle started to laugh, then thought better of it. "We were to be married," she said. "He was getting the place ready for us."

"And did something happen to him?"

"Yes, something happened."

"Oh, I'm sorry."

"You needn't be." The telephone rang and Florabelle hurried her guest out. "Come every few minutes," she said.

Ann went back to the worn carpet and artificial flowers. She sat down and thought for a long time.

Parents Who Are Sympathetic, Sincere Can Banish Night Terrors In Children

By Dr. Morris Fishbein
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Occasionally children wake up, shrieking and crying, in the middle of the night, and it is difficult for parents to calm them. Sometimes youngsters scream when they seem to be sound asleep. These conditions are commonly called night terrors.

Occasionally, night terror may be related to the fact that the child has eaten too much before going to bed or that he has slept in an awkward position. Sometimes it will be caused by a radio program that is full of shooting and horror; a movie of a type to stimulate a fear reaction. Occasionally children have such reactions following auto accidents or tonsilectomies, serious falls.

Most psychologists believe that night terrors can be controlled if the child understands them. Usually, children hesitate to describe their dreams because of the fear that adults will make fun of them. If the child is awakened thoroughly, however, allowed to rest for a few minutes and then encouraged to talk freely about his fears, he will usually remember the causes and will describe the dreams which led to the night terror. If the nature of the dream is explained to the child, he may lose some of his fear and distress.

Children are much more susceptible to suggestion than are adults. If, before the child goes to bed, adults indicate earnestly that he will fall asleep promptly and will sleep quietly throughout the night, the effect on the child may be beneficial.

Psychiatrists point out that some children do better if they try to substitute pleasant dreams for bad ones. If parents ask the child before going to bed what he would like to dream about and then suggest some pleasant experience, the result may be satisfactory. Frequently the telling of bedtime stories will result in pleasant dreams. However, stories full of wicked witches and goblins are not likely to yield a restful night.

Night terrors occur particularly in children who do not like to go to sleep and who put up an argument before going to bed. In such cases, it is possible that terrors are a reaction of the child for being compelled to go to sleep.

A clock invented 15 years ago is run by a tiny speck of radium. It ticks every 10 seconds and has been estimated to be able to run for 10,000 years without a change of "fuel." It is doubtful, however, that the works will last that long.

Although men, many thousands of years ago, hammered meteoric iron into tools and weapons, it was only a little more than 100 years ago that scientists admitted there was such a thing as a meteorite.

Eire Uses Shamrocks In Stamp Designs

THE shamrocks of Ireland are to be found on stamps as well as growing in the Auld Sod. They are encircled on the upper corners of the map of Ireland stamp, above, issued in 1923 by the Irish Free State. Note also that all of the Emerald Isle is included in the map, although North Ireland is not a part of Eire. North Ireland's mails bear the stamps of Great Britain.

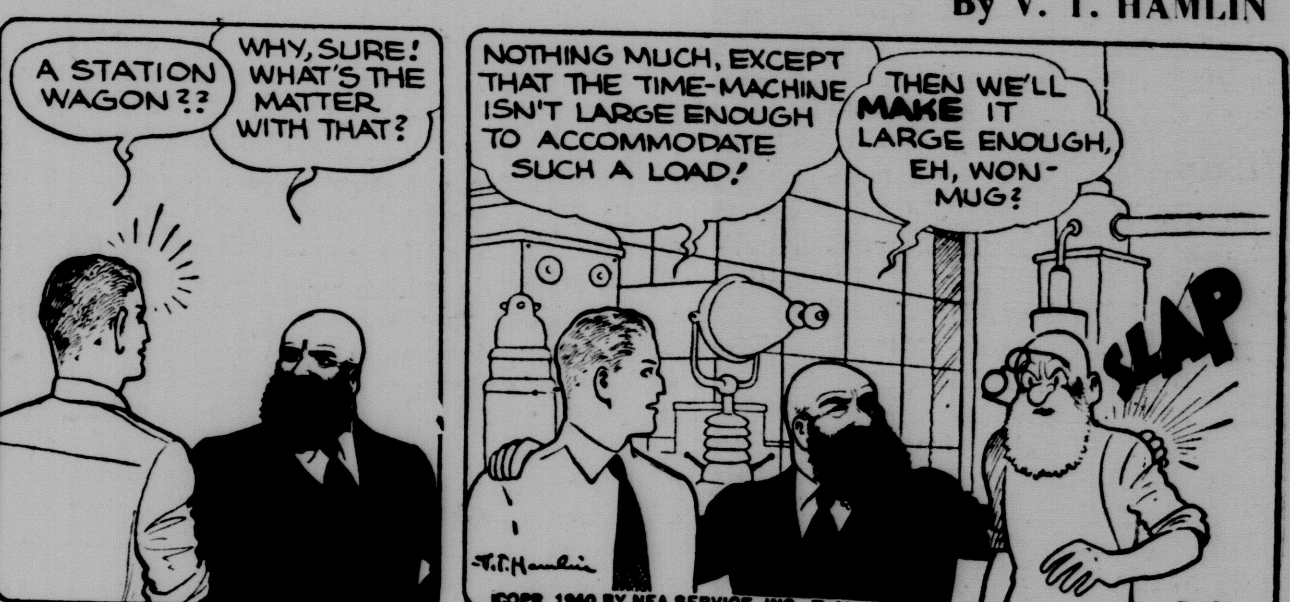

LYONS, third largest city of France, is honored by the new pictorial stamp above, showing the famed La Guillotiere bridge across the Rhone, one of the city's 13 bridges. The city is important for its many industries and is the silk center of the world.

Wheat and Corn
Both In A Gain
CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP)—Gains of about a cent in wheat prices were lost during the final hour of trading today and the market closed fractionally lower than Saturday.

Selling associated with rather large receipts at principal markets, particularly in the northwest, offset purchasing credited to mills and cash grain dealers. Some of the selling was believed to have represented hedging of loan wheat purchased by commercial interests.

Wheat closed 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower than Saturday. May $1.00 1/2 to $1.00 3/4, July 98 1/2 to 99 1/4, corn unchanged to 1/2 cent higher. May 56 1/2 to 56 3/4, July 56 1/2 to 56 3/4; oats unchanged to 1/2 cent lower.

LACKED THE PEP AND ENERGY TO GET ABOUT

"I Found KruGon To Be As Advertised," Said Mr. Miles: Feeling Better In Many Ways; Has Gained In Strength

"KruGon is the first medicine of my experience that I was not disappointed with," said Mr. Andrew Miles, 317 W. Chestnut St., Springfield, Missouri. "For nearly six months I had been in failing health. My complexion became yellow and I lacked the pep and energy to get about. Faulty elimination was to be blamed for my health condition yet I could not find anything to help me. My stomach failed to digest my foods properly and although I selected by diet carefully I suffered so after each meal I soon lost my appetite. At night I couldn't sleep but would roll and toss in restlessness. Then a friend told me of KruGon and how much good he had derived from it so I decided I too would give it a fair trial.

"KruGon has not disappointed me in the least," continued Mr. Miles. "Now that I am getting regular elimination of clogged toxic impurities my complexion has cleared up, I sleep good each night and feel so much stronger. My foods are digesting as they should now and I can eat any of the foods I wish. I am glad to tell others of the merit of this wonderful remedy, KruGon."

KruGon is sold by McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 W. Main St., this city and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

closed our meeting with the scoutmaster's benediction. Billy Middleton, scribe.

Troop 67
Troop 67 met Tuesday, February 27, at Horace Mann school. We studied our First Aid and played Ping Pong and other games. We had a short business meeting first. We talked about our Doughnut sale, also. There are now 255 dozen sold.—Norman Fulton, scribe.

Troop 161
The scout meeting started at 7:30 p. m. There were several boys working on their Second Class badge and there will be about 5 scouts going to Board of Review next time. Scouts Joe Williams, Bud Roe, and Aubrey Woods passed their first aid. Two more have just about two tests to pass. Bob passed his First Class Aid.

Notes From Training Camps

ANAHEIM, Calif., March 4.—(P)—It looks like that $25,000 Connie Mack paid Memphis last fall for Pitcher Herman Besse may pay dividends for the Philadelphia Athletics this season.

Besse pitched hitless ball for three innings yesterday as the A's trounced Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, 6-3, in the first exhibition game of 1940.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 4.—(P)—Steve Tramback, who won 21 games as a pitcher and filled in afield for Fort Smith of the Western Association last year, isn't fast enough to make good as a pitcher in the opinion of Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants.

"I'm giving him a first baseman's mitt from now on," said Terry. "He can hit, and he's a good athlete. He's young enough to make the switch, and he should make it now."

Maybe Terry, one of the National League's great first basemen, remembers he also tried to break in as a pitcher.

AVAILON, Calif., March 4.—(P)—The hottest battle in the Chicago Cubs' camp is for the shortstop berth. The Veteran Billy Rogell, obtained from Detroit in a deal for Dick Bartell, is vying with Bobby Mattick, Leonard Merullo and Bob Sturgeon, all youngsters. So far Mattick and Sturgeon seem to be in the lead.

SARSOTA, Fla., March 4.—(P)—Dominic DiMaggio, who looks like brother Vincent, but acts like brother Joseph at bat and afield, has reported to the Boston Red Sox, along with Lou Finney, leaving only Pitcher Joe Heving outside the field. Manager Joe Cronin announced work would start in earnest today with the regulars drilling in the morning and rookies during the afternoon.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 4.—(P)—Another Peckinpaugh has followed the trail of the Cleveland Indians into camp. Walter Peckinpaugh, son of the famous Roger, who played and managed for the tribe, is trying out for shortstop, his dad's old position.

A University of Michigan graduate, Young Peck made his professional debut in the Evangeline League last year and finished the season with New Orleans. A free agent now, he probably will be sent to an Indian farm for seasoning.

PASTEURIZATION AND STERILIZATION

Through research by Doctor Louis Pasteur during the last century, the cause of infection was discovered as being simply contamination from an unclean or germ-laden source. Doctor Joseph Lister thoroughly demonstrated that surgical operations could be performed without infection, by keeping instruments and dressings completely sterile. Unless there is an inner infection, the present day infected operation wound is rare indeed.

Even Lister with his crude method of sterilizing, reduced the mortality of his operations from every other one to one out of twenty—and that was in 1865.

Modern obstetrics has especially profited from this discovery by Pasteur and practical application by Lister and others. Almost never is the hospital birth followed by infection.

Discovery of Pasteurization or sterilization has been one of the greatest gifts from Medical Science, affects us all every hour of the day, and adds to our comfort and well-being—whether we are sick or well.
